

Keeping Southwark Active

Southwark Council is asking all residents to follow the national guidance on staying safe when considering being active, e.g. avoiding areas which will prevent social distancing from being possible if going out for daily exercise activity. Please note guidance for people at high or moderate risk has been changed – [find more details here.]

Staying active is more important than ever, and even if you're mostly in your house at the moment, there are plenty of ways you can achieve this. Being active in a way that is right for you can improve your physical health, help manage stress and anxiety, and generally make you feel better.

If you're going outside to get fresh air and to be active, you must respect social distancing and good hygiene guidelines, be alone, with people from your household, or with no more than one person from another household.

Sport England have created a webpage that gives details of resources to exercise at home or in the outdoors as part of their campaign Join the Movement with further ideas being shared across social media via #StayInWorkOut

The Youth Sport Trust have made resources available to support teachers, parents and carers to continue with Physical Education and Active Play while children are at home instead of school – free home learning resources

If you are rarely active, or have an existing or previous health condition that could be affected by a new exercise routine, then it is probably wise not to start anything new that might be beyond your capability. Any new activity should be comfortable to do and only increased very slowly over days and weeks.
